1.3.101

a Lesson in the University of The New Covenant

Theodore Cottingham, December 26, 2005 2:15am

www.unc.bz

1. What are you willing that I should do for you this day?
What are you willing to do in the day of your glory?
What is it that you would like to do for Me?
What is it that you would like to give Me?
What is it that you think I want?
What do you want?
What do you want of Me?
What am I willing to give you?
I give you Me. I give you all of Me. What else is there to give?
2. Have I restricted you, do I place boundaries on you?
Do I treat you as immature/young; not knowing good from bad, righteousness from evil?
Yea, I have placed all in your hand. See what I have said.
I have placed all in your hand and given you My head, My heart.
What are you doing with Me?
3. What is it that you want to do and why and wherefore placated are you so little and long for so much more that placates at a level that only ties your arms and helps you see-not. But, yea, where is thy kingdom? What is come? Then, who is Mine?
"Thy kingdom come in me." Is this what you say to Me? Is this what you want? Is this the price that you will pay at any cost, loving your life, not, unto death?
4. What is it that you would like to do for Me, as Me, by Me, apart from Me, or with Me? And wherefore do you take thought for these things? And what are thoughts? Have I not asked, have I not mentioned/talked about, discussed/addressed thoughts, the power thereof?
5. Who are you O thought-man? Why, oh where is your kingdom and do you have any?
What is, isn't; and what isn't, is; before you see.
6. Comest thou into Me for Me or for you? Or to abide by the precepts of another? Thinking thought-darkness or thought-light. Are thoughts darkness or light and yea, which is which and between the two, how to choose.
7. I give you Me and I would for Me that you become Me, My fullness, My allness, all in all, that thou wouldst know and operate in the realms of All, yea, transcendent. Is that enough that I place you on My throne, the Godhead in you, you in it, seated at My right hand, yea at My left? Is there anything else?
8. I love you and I give you Me. Property none, kingdom all; all righteousness, holiness, mercifulness, yea, Mine.
9. I give you Me and thou art holy.

Where is your holiness?
What are you doing with it?
What will come to Me and you and how?

10. The questions that burn through the centuries: Who am I? Where did I come from and where am I going? What am I taking with Me? When do I come again?

11. Is there anything too difficult for Me? Is My arm shortened or My ear heavy or My eye dim? Or yea, do I hover over you 24/7, yea, watching upon the throne of the righteous who righteous were, who yea, for some, yea, their throne; born into slavery/captivity; yea, not knowing/remembering their former glory. I love you. Into Me see who you are, what you have and what I've given and avail yourself much to the freedom that I place before you. Yea, as years end, years begin in the new beginning that I have for you, so many availeth much, deeply in things of My realm, in the things of My realm.

12. Thou art holy for I am holy. Walkest thou in your might and power in holiness none; or My might and power, righteousness, meekness, yea holiness all. I love you. I give you Me.